MAN SHOULD NOT DIE

There is No Physiological Reason For Death.

THE BODY IS SELF RENEWING

Perfect Diet and Mode of Living Would Insure Exact Balance Between Bodily Waste and Renewal and Would Mean Physical Immortality.

"The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death," said the Scriptures, yet if some man attempted seriously to reassert this ancient truth today we would look upon him as a mad prophet indeed. Yet the time will come when men will be able to believe this promise of the Bible, although they may never see it literally fulfilled.

Death some day will be acknowledged to be as unnatural in the economy of the creative plant as are sin and suffering. But whether or not in some millennium period mortal man will be able to forego the gross process of physical dissolution in becoming a spiritual body is a purely metaphysical question that does not enter here. What does interest us is the question, occupying the greatest scientific minds today, whether the body as such cannot be retained in perfect condition indefinitely.

William A. Hammond, one of the great authorities, answers it by saying, "There is no physiological reason why man should die."

Thomas J. Allen, M. A., LL. D., writing in a similar strain, says: "The human body is not like a machine which must wear out by constant disintegration, for it is self renewing. It is a simple, scientific fact that we get an entirely new body every few years, estimated at from three to seven. Every day is a birthday, for the process of waste and renewal never ceases. Perfect balance between elimination and renewal would avoid permanent waste."

There is no doubt that when we become more enlightened and understand perfectly the laws that govern and determine our physical lives and when we conform to these religiously life will be immeasurably prolonged.

The decay of the body as evidenced in old age is unnatural. The aesthetic within us recoils in merely contemplating its approach. We feel that there must be something self-perpetuating in the change when the strong color in a healthy man and the fresh beauty in a pure woman take their departure, when the bloom on the cheeks fades, when the brilliant light within the eyes grows dim and the full, red lips become pale and fallen.

Medical science has pointed out the physiological cause of these conditions. Probably the time will come when it will be able to point out the manner of avoiding them.

We know that the body grows old because of the existence of an imperfect balance between the waste which the body accumulates and the amount it is able to throw off. During youth the balance is perfect, because the body has more than its normal vitality and strength to throw off the waste matter, but as we grow older this perfect balance becomes destroyed from one cause or another.

The strength that should go to eliminating impurities from the body is not husbanded, but rather squandered in different ways. Then, too, we eat and drink those things that cause excessive waste. An impure diet composed of foods containing uric acid, such as meat, or of drinks containing poisons, such as tea and coffee, taxes the eliminative powers, and when the time comes when these give way a state of imperfect elimination has set in, and the wastes in part are deposited in the system, settling in the arteries and joints of the body and accumulating until they become obstructive elements.

The blood stream circulates imperfectly, and when once this condition exists bad functioning of every organ of the body results, and old age and death gradually ensue.

Mind, too, has a great deal to do in hastening or retarding the unpleasant signs of physical decay. Mental science has satisfactorily demonstrated that mean, narrow, selfish and unpleasant thoughts act destructively on the tissues of the body, while thoughts of a wholesome and positive character act constructively.

And when the curtains of "the windows of the soul" are drawn, when the temple's door is closed and a final silence is within, when the spirit passes the threshold to take up a newer and finer edifice of its own creation, science assures us that the body lives on. Here at least physical immortality is an assured fact.

Theology has irreligiously taught us that the body returns to inanimate dust. The religious answer of science is that it returns to God. The latest word in the field of biology is that all nature, including the all mother soil, is animated and hallowed with the divine principle of life.

More than this, matter is indestructible and eternal. There is not an atom that can be lost in all the universe. For this reason our bodies do not really die. They are in the care of the angels of the elements.

The peculiar cellular arrangement that formed them into a beautiful body may be caused to disintegrate through the action of the oxygen upon it, time may change the position of the atoms composing it, but the latter still contain within themselves the sacred and eternal principle of life as much as does the soul, and they exist only to enter into new and perhaps more beautiful combinations of life.—Health.

Marie de Medici.

The tastes of Marie de Medici, wife of Henry IV. of France, were splendid, and she indulged them to the full. One of her collars of venetian point was alone "worth the eyes out of a man's head," and she had a fine store of them. Describing her as she arrayed herself on a typical occasion in a costume of carnation satin, M. Batiffol, in "The French Court in the Seventeenth Century," continues as follows:

"This arranged to her satisfaction, her jewels, of which she has quantities scattered in different cabinets, must not be forgotten nor yet her ring. Her gold bracelets, studded with seventy-two small diamonds, were purchased from Francois le Prestre, jeweler of Paris, for 1,000 livres. Her earrings, two great diamonds surrounded by lesser brilliants, were made by the jeweler, Jean Subtil. Her gold watch, valued at 2,100 livres, is oval in shape and ornamented with several diamonds, and she must not forget to place in her pocket for use at mass the 'rosary of enameled gold, embellished with diamonds,' a trifle worth 2,000 livres. And, thus adorned, the queen must yet perfume herself."

Clearing It Up.

"To which is a man more closely related," said the genealogist, "his first divorced wife's second husband or his present wife's first divorced husband?" "So far as I can see, one tie is about as close as the other," said a thoughtful friend.

"So I should say," said the genealogist, "but Billy Bowen must have figured out a difference. Anyhow, when his first wife's second husband died Billy went to a ball game, but when his present wife's first husband died he went into mourning. I can't understand that."

"I can," said the thoughtful friend. "Billy's present wife was on the point of divorcing him so she could remarry her first husband. Now that he is dead she has decided to stick to Billy."

"Ah!" said the genealogist.—New York Press.

Always Waning.

A Frenchman who apparently has a good deal of time on his hands has been amusing himself by reckoning up the number of kisses he has given his wife during the first twenty years of his married life.

He finds that in the first year he dispensed about 100 kisses a day, or, say, allowing for birthdays and legal and church holidays, about 26,700 in the year.

In the second year this number was reduced by half and in the third year to ten a day, while in the fifth year his better half had to be content with two a day, one in the morning and one in the evening.

What happened in the fifth year is "wrapped in mystery," but at the same rate of "progression" he probably arrived eventually at one kiss on the first of January every leap year.

A Friend in Need.

"Lend me a dollar, old man," said the artist. "I'm hungry."

"I'm broke myself," responded the stage manager, "but I'll put you on in the bill tonight. We have an eating scene."

"Man, I'll starve before night."

"In that case I'll call a rehearsal!"—St. Louis Herald.

SOLDIERS IN BATTLE

How Men Feel and Act With Death All About Them.

THE STORY OF A PRIVATE.

With the Beginning of the Fight Comes Fear, but That Soon Passes Away in the Eagerness For Killing. Varying Effects of Wounds.

A narrative of the battle of Solferino as told by a veteran survivor to Robert Shackleton appears in Harper's. It is, word for word, a chapter of history as seen by a man in the ranks. Incidents which impressed him are curious:

"We baited, and a Tyrolean lying on the ground cried out: 'I am dying. Give me to drink.' Whereat my companion stooped to offer him a flask, and as he stooped the Tyrolean struck savagely at him with his bayonet, but my companion jumped back, and it missed him, and he said, 'You Tyrolean, you said you wanted a drink before you died, and now you shall die without the drink,' and he stuck his bayonet through him as a boy would stick a pin through a fly."

"The fighting soon began again, and it was very fierce. It was soon that we came to know that we were to capture a little village and the hills about the village. The village was named San Martino, and there were walled barns and gardens, and the Austrians were very strong there."

"The bursting of the shells was very bad. Sometimes all of us close by would be thrown down and be covered with mud and earth, but most of us would jump up again, not wounded, but always there were some who would not jump up again, because they were wounded or dead."

"At the beginning of a battle a soldier feels afraid. At the beginning of this battle I felt afraid, and I know that other men felt afraid, though it was not our first battle, and we knew what it was to be under fire."

"So it was that at the beginning we commended ourselves; we felt like death, but soon that passed away, and we thought no more of death, but only of the killing of the Austrians."

"All around me men were killed. There were heads and arms blown off, and men flew into pieces like the smashing of a jug. But we did not care. We thought nothing of it. I do not know that we even knew we saw such things, but some of them came to me as I sat with you and talk of that long day. We did not notice, and we did not think that at any moment we too might have our heads blown off or be smashed into little pieces like the breaking of a jug."

"Once, when we rushed over the big guns and killed the men who still fought with us, we turned the guns to fire on the Austrians as they flew away, but they had driven bits of steel into the touchholes, and so we could not fire them. They were of a courage, those Austrians."

"Only once in all that battle did I think much of what I saw or heard, and that was when there was the terrible screaming of a captain who had his foot shot off. He twisted and turned as he cried out, and it was a very bad sound. But it is just as if chances. I saw many men who were hurt worse than that captain and many who were blown into little bits, but I did not trouble about them. It is just as if chances are."

"It is very often that a man does not know that he is hurt. I remember that once there was a man near me with a great hole in his forehead, but he ran right on with us with his bayonet, and I thought, 'He will fall dead.' But after that I saw him no more, for there was always the fighting."

"The storm and the darkness, they made of us a great mixing. Yes, it was a very great tangling, for all lines were lost, and I know that sometimes Austrians struck at Austrians and sometimes Italians struck at Italians, for we were in a very great mixing and very fierce in the darkness of that storm."

"We were told to lie down and sleep. So we lay down where we were, among the dead and the wounded, among the Italians and the Austrians."

"And we slept. Yes, we were tired, for we had fought hard for all that long, long day, and on that hill that at last we had gained we slept, and we gave no heed to the dead men or the wounded."

"The wounded they made very great cries, and there were men sent to go among them with lights. Some were surgeons, and some were men to carry them to the field hospitals. But the most of us we lay there and slept, and we were very tired, and we knew that with the morning there might be another fight."

"The Good Old Days."

How times have changed! When we were young, people had bad colds, soaked their feet in hot water and got well. Now they have grip, take quinine and feel sick all over. Then they had sore throat, wrapped a piece of fat pork in an old sock, tied it around the neck at night and went to work the next morning. Now they have tonsillitis, a surgical operation and two weeks in the house. Then they had stomach ache and took castor oil and recovered. Now they have appendicitis, a week in the hospital and six feet due east and west and six feet perpendicular. They worked then; they labor now. In those days they wore underclothes; now they wear lingerie. Then they went to a restaurant; now they go to a cafe. Then they broke a leg; now they fracture a limb. People went crazy then; they have a brain storm now. Politicians then paid good hard cash for support; now they send government garden seeds. Yes, times have changed, and we all change with the times. That's progression.—Anell Hatten in Westphalia (Kan.) Times.

Power of Plants.

Farmers are well acquainted with the fact that the roots of trees will disrupt and sometimes overturn a stone wall, but the lifting power of tender vegetables is equally surprising.

The one result which has perhaps attracted the greatest attention is the discovery that a weight of two and a half tons can be lifted by the common pumpkin in the course of its development.

Dr. Carpenter relates the story of a paving stone weighing eighty-three pounds that was raised from its bed (when joined by others on all four sides) by such a soft piece of fungi as the common mushroom. And still another and more remarkable story is added to the above.

A man had a cask of sweet wine and placed it in an empty cellar to mature. When examined several years later it had risen from the floor of the cellar to the ceiling, having been borne upward upon the tender shoots of a vine fungus with which the cellar was filled.—London Home Notes.

Catching the "Tone."

He was a well-meaning young man, but as curate in a small village he had never occasion to meet the class of people who frequented the fashionable parish to which he had just been appointed.

His new rector, wishing to help him on to success, had been liberal with advice and had duly impressed him with the importance of always taking the "tone" of the people with whom he mingled. Being invited to take dinner at the mansion of one of the members of the congregation and knowing that he would have to say grace, the young curate took his cue from the conversation overheard before dinner, and when his hostess nodded meaningly in his direction he delivered himself of the following, which he considered quite in keeping with the "tone" of the guests assembled:

"O Lord, thanks awfully, jolly good feed, wat?"—London Express.

A Man's Tact.

Nobody but Mr. Henley would have asked such a question in the first place. "Miss Fairley," he said, "if you could make yourself over what kind of hair and eyes would you have?" "If I could make myself over," said Miss Fairley, "I would look just as ugly as I do now."

"You would?" exclaimed Henley in honest surprise, and to this day he can't understand why Miss Fairley thinks him a man of little taste and less tact.

A Real Dilemma.

"Say, Mike," queried Pooking Pete, who was looking at the piece of a Sunday school paper that had come with a handout, "wat does it mean 'bout bein' between de devil an' de deep sea?"

"It's de same as bein' told I take yer choice between gals' I work an' 'bout a bath," explained Meandering Mike.—Chicago News.

THE PLANET JUPITER

A Monster World, 1,300 Times the Size of Ours.

WHIRLS WITH AWFUL SPEED.

It Spins Around at Such a Fearful Gait That a Furious Gale Perpetually Encircles Its Equator—Its Possible Inhabitants and Its Moons.

It is curious how little the average person knows about Jupiter. He has heard a lot, too much perhaps, about Mars, but that world, 1,300 times the size of ours, whirling in the terrible outer distance of space with its five moons, its 144 months yearly, known as Jupiter is almost if not quite a mystery.

In the first place, Jupiter, according to some astronomers, is inhabited. So are some of its moons, in the midst of which the great planet spins around like a top at such tremendous speed that it causes around the equator a furious wind that blows perpetually at a rate of about 250 miles an hour.

In the midst of this never ending, howling gale live the Jovians. Some astronomers say that because Jupiter is so much bigger and heavier than the earth no creature of any weight can support itself. A man weighing 200 pounds on this earth would, if carried to Jupiter, weigh 500 pounds, and, reasoning thus, they believe that nothing bigger than a cat could stand on this vast world.

But this is no doubt a mistake. If Jupiter stood still or revolved no faster than our earth all that astronomy says would be true, and a terrestrial man could not stand upon its surface. But as a fact the tremendous rate of revolution is so much faster than the earth's that in spite of its monstrous size it turns about in less than ten hours as against our twenty-four hours.

As it is, a man of normal earthly size, if transported to the equator of Jupiter, would actually feel much lighter than he does here on earth, because the swift rotation of the planet would almost lift him from his feet and throw him into the heavens. He would feel so light that the 250 mile an hour tornado that blows incessantly would pick him up and carry him around and around the planet like a speck of dust.

In order to keep on his feet the Jovian man or woman would have to be about fifty feet tall. Some of them would doubtless reach the height of fifty-five feet. Like all big bodies, the Jovian would have a tendency to slowness of motion. Having once seated himself, he would spend a good twelve hours at his breakfast and perhaps eighteen at his dinner and would probably throw up his job if his employer allowed him less than six hours for his lunch.

The oceans of Jupiter, torn into fury by the hurricanes, would pay no attention to one moon such as moves the tides on our earth, and it takes no fewer than five of these satellites to perform this work for Jupiter. They travel at various rates of speed, some flying very close to Jupiter's surface and others far off. They have atmospheres somewhat like ours on earth, and a moonlight on Jupiter is indeed a curious sight, for these moons have a variety of colors. Two are blue, one is yellow and one red.

Jupiter needs all its moons at night for illumination, for without them the five hours of darkness would be black indeed. So distant is the sun that broad daylight is hardly brighter than twilight on earth, and one lone moon would not reflect enough of the sun's rays to guide the Jovian footsteps.

In the polar and semipolar areas the 250 mile an hour tornado of the equator is not present. Doubtless there are eddies and occasional windstorms such as there are on earth. And in these localities it is possible for smaller creatures to exist, and here, too, vegetation would flourish. The food supply of Jupiter must come from these areas, where it is cultivated and shipped to the equatorial regions by the diminutive races. The polar oceans are not frozen because of the great internal heat of Jupiter. And on these still oceans probably ships not greatly different from ours ply, but about the

STATE DETECTIVE RECEIVES THREAT

Eaton Warned Not to Work on High Springs Tragedy.

BUT IS PUSHING INVESTIGATION

Hopes to Arrest Writer of Letter, Also Murderers—Governor Promises to Do Everything Possible to Capture Writer—Copy of Letter Given.

The Jacksonville Metropolis of August 15th contains the following relative to the recent murder of W. H. Mooreland at High Springs:

"High Springs, Aug. 13, 1908.

"Mr. Eaton—You are to D—smart—you have been here too often trying to get somebody in trouble.

"Now old boy you have some friends here but my advice to you is to make yourself scarce as you may know too much. See?

"You have a good rep now don't try and spoil it by working on Billie's case. Nuff ced. Beware!

(Signed) A FRIEND.

"Detective Charles F. Eaton, who has for some time been working with relentless energy in order to apprehend the murderer of W. H. Mooreland, the traveling salesman who was assassinated at High Springs, has received the above missive. The letter was sent first to Mr. Eaton's home at Lake City, and forwarded from there to Jacksonville, and immediately upon receiving it the able detective took steps to identify the writer by a comparison of type-writers in High Springs, and has an excellent clue to the identity of the writer.

"It is becoming more evident daily that Mr. Eaton is working on the right clue in connection with the murder, which he thinks resulted from Mooreland's association with a young woman who registered at the Aragon Hotel while Mooreland was last in the city and with whom, according to testimony given at Gainesville in the trial of Will Bexley and Truby Osteen, charged with the murder, Mooreland had an engagement at High Springs on the night of the murder.

"Detective Eaton is determined to arrest the writer of the threatening letter, if possible, and also to bring to justice the men responsible for the murder of Mooreland. It is understood that the attention of Governor Broward, who is in the city, has been called to the letter, and he will also interest himself in the matter. The writer, if caught, will be made to suffer a heavy penalty for this act. These developments are further proof that strenuous action should be taken to rid High Springs of the band of thugs who have held sway there for years."

THE BAND GIVES REASON.

Censure of Some Citizens Was Entirely Out of Place.

There has been some complaint of the failure of the Gainesville band to turn out on the occasion of the Palatka-Gainesville baseball game Thursday afternoon, but this complaint is apparently undeserved and unwarranted.

It is a well-known fact that the Gainesville band is composed of men who are either engaged in professional or other duties, and are not at the command of the people, for this reason. They cannot afford to leave their posts of duty at times, and it is unjust and unfair that the public should expect them to.

The members of the Gainesville band, who are all gentlemen, and who are making one of the best bands in the State at their own expense and on their own responsibility, cannot be expected to turn out upon every occasion, because their duties will not permit. However, if they receive compensation and ample notice was given, it might be that they could arrange matters satisfactorily.

The Gainesville band is getting to a point where it is now an organization of note, and it is hoped that the people will not censure the members for not turning out, but will encourage them to do so.

LETTER TO N. W. MALPHURS.
Gainesville, Florida.

Dear Sir: A certain paint manufacturer advertised "Waldorf-Astoria painted throughout with my paint." A part of the basement was so painted; not satisfactory; painted Devco next time.

There's a certain paint, a big concern, very proud and ambitious, that hated to see so big a job of another paint; so it went for that business.

That former paint was about two-thirds not paint, but this proud and ambitious paint was only about one-third not paint. It succeeded in getting a trial: 25 gallons, 5 kits of 5 gallons each.

When the painter had used one kit, he called the manager; not satisfactory; 4 of the kits returned. A paint, one-third not paint, is not good enough to displace Devco.

This was several years ago. That proud and ambitious paint is better now; it is nearer honest; it isn't short measure at all and only 15 per cent adulterated. It's a pretty good paint now; 13 or 14 gallons of it goes as far as 10 of Devco.

Judge I. D. Fairchild owns two houses alike in Lufkin, Texas. J. M. Torrence painted both houses; one Devco, and the other with that proud and ambitious adulterated 15 per cent paint. It took 15 1/2 gallons Devco and 25 gallons of the proud and ambitious paint.

It takes a pretty good paint to disturb Devco. Yours truly,

BIG FIRE OCCURS AT HIGH SPRINGS

Five Places of Business and One Office Destroyed by Fire.

THE LOSS WILL RUN HIGH

Mercantile Interests Suffer a Great Deal, and No Insurance on Some Buildings—High Springs to Suffer for the Next Few Months.

High Springs, Aug. 15.—Beginning at 12 o'clock last night a terrible fire occurred, the second most disastrous in the history of High Springs. It began in Dr. Tanner's drug store and quickly spread, until the following business houses and their entire contents were consumed:

Drug store of Dr. Tanner.

Dry goods store, Mr. R. D. Futch. Postoffice.

Cold drink stand, Mr. J. D. Neal.

Drug store, Judge M. A. Bexley.

Office, Dr. Everard Blackshear.

The buildings occupied by Dr. Tanner and Mr. R. D. Futch were owned by Mr. Futch, with no insurance. The other buildings belonged to the Danforth estate, with some insurance.

The entire block would have been consumed had it not been for the heroic efforts of the citizens of High Springs.

The origin of the fire is unknown. The town is without stamps until the arrival of Train 42.

Freedom of the Press.

The battle for a free press in the full modern sense was fought out between 1704 and 1771, beginning with the prosecution of Wilkes for attacking Bute in the North Briton and ending with the successful resistance to the proclamation by which the commons had forbidden the publication of their debates. Six printers who had infringed the proclamation were summoned to the bar of the house. Five obeyed, and the messenger of the house was sent to arrest the sixth. The lord mayor sent the messenger to prison. The house of commons sent the lord mayor to the Tower, but he was released at the next prorogation, and the day on which he left the Tower marked the end of the last attempt to silence the press.—New York American.

The Real Version.

Napoleon sat inadvertently upon a smoking cannon and scorched the seat of his white trousers.

"I cannot turn back now," he muttered to an aid as he hastily dismounted. "I have burned my britches behind me!"

This historic expression has been grossly corrupted by later writers.—Pathfinder.

The Supreme Test.

"You are all right," said the doctor after he had gone through with the regulation thumping and listening with his patient. "Not a trace of heart disease. Fifteen dollars, please!"

The patient drew a long breath and remarked: "I am sure now I have no heart disease. If I had, I should have dropped dead when you mentioned your fee."

Fun Missed in Air Traveling.

It may be a great achievement for a balloon to travel at the rate of seventy-five miles per hour, but what is the fun in skipping along at that rate when you cannot see the telegraph poles or constables whiz past? The pleasure in speed is in passing things that stand still or go slower.—Boston Advertiser.

H. DENTON'S GREAT OVATION

McLeod, Watson and Others Also Acknowledged to Be "Peaches" in Baseball World—"A Good Thing" That Turned Out "All to the Good."

Referring to the game of baseball between the Gainesville and Palatka teams last Thursday, Editor McKenzie gives the following interesting account in his Palatka Times-Herald:

"The baseball excursion to Gainesville yesterday was well patronized, as the stores and offices closed before noon in order that all who desired might go over to see the big game. When the train pulled out of the union station a little after 12 it carried 403 passengers. En route stops were made at various points and people taken on, so it was a big crowd that arrived at the University City.

"It was a record-breaking host of hungry rooters present when the game was called, as the home people also turned out well. The paid admissions showed over 900 in attendance. Palatka batted first, and in her round scored one. In her half the Oak Halls failed to connect, so our money began to feel safe. In the second, however, a Gainesville man trotted home, thus tying the score. Nothing doing on either side until the eventful fourth, when the Gem City tallied one more, and again our fans were much in evidence. The University City boys were beginning to get anxious. Harry Denton, a popular slugger, came to bat, and after hitting the air twice landed on the next ball, and away it sailed over the fence. With the tying score he trotted across the plate, accompanied by the town of Gainesville. It was a peach of a hit, and the lad deserved the shoes, hat, sweater and praise given him. He was indeed the candy boy of the bout.

"For three innings the pitchers did the work, neither side scoring. In the eighth McLeod gave an exhibition of real base running. He used his head and his legs, and so excited our boys that they tossed around the ball and he dashed home with what proved the winning run. His ovation was second only to that accorded Denton. Palatka never got past second in the next innings.

"Brown, the hero of the Bartow diamond, twirled a great game, fanning twelve, and he was well caught by Westbrook, the Georgia peach. Jewett, Dillon and Paine delivered the goods more than once. We had the strongest line-up of the season—in fact, the best since the days of the memorable Palatka (Montezuma)-Gainesville battle, and it looked good to our local sports who went down in their jeans to back it. EASY TO MOVE

Nothing is more exasperating to the housewife than a bed which is hard to move.

With this special thought in mind BERNSTEIN BEDS are all equipped with large-size, easy-running castors which allow the bed to be moved easily, and with no danger of damage to carpets, rugs or matting. The rollers are made of genuine lignum vitae—the hardest wood that grows—shel-lacked and polished.

The Bernstein Attachment.

The Bernstein is the original three-part bed.

The Bernstein Attachment (covered by patents) holds the side rails or frame to the foot and head. Very simple in principle, yet holds the bed rigid and firm. Joints can not rattle or shake. Head and foot stand perfectly erect and solid. Easily and instantly detached. In half a minute the BERNSTEIN BED can be taken down without tools or hammer—just the hands alone. Any woman, any girl can do it.

This is the attachment that makes the only practical three-piece bed—wood made.

It is a remarkable fact that a full-sized Bernstein Bed—either Enamelled or Brass—will sustain an actual weight of twenty-five ordinary persons, or nearly two tons. This extreme strength, with absolute rigidity, makes the Bernstein Bed an article of household utility that will last a lifetime—can be handed down from generation to generation.

THE G. W. HYDE COMPANY

NEWS OF CITY AND COUNTY CONDENSED

B. M. Tench has returned from Columbus, Ohio, where he has been to attend a meeting of the salesmen and directors of the H. C. Godman Company, of which he is a valued employe in the capacity of traveling salesman. In the convention Mr. Tench had the distinction of delivering one of five addresses before the convention, in which he introduced an advertising campaign which was adopted without change. Mr. Tench is a clever ad. man, as has been demonstrated in his business here. His friends congratulate him upon his work along these lines.

W. B. Holder of Santa Fe was in the city yesterday, en route to his home at Citronelle, where he is engaged in the mercantile business. Mr. Holder, together with other members of his family, has been to Santa Fe to attend the reunion of the Holder family, and states that he was thoroughly delighted with the function, there being many present. On Thursday the Holder family enjoyed a picnic and fish fry at Worthington Springs, at which there was a full gathering of the generation, and all had a good time, with plenty of fish and other good things to eat. Mr. and Mrs. James Holder and children passed through the city in the afternoon of yesterday, bound for their home.

Chronic Diarrhoea Relieved.

Mr. Edward E. Henry, with the United States Express Co., Chicago, writes: "Our General Superintendent, Mr. Quick, handed me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy some time ago to check an attack of the old chronic diarrhoea. I have used it since that time and cured many on our trains who have been sick. I am an old soldier who served with Rutherford B. Hayes and William McKinley four years in the 23rd Ohio Regiment, and have no ailment except chronic diarrhoea, which this remedy stops at once." For sale by all druggists.

Miss Carlisle's Drag Ride.

Miss Kittle Carlisle, who is very popular with the young people, especially with the children of the First Methodist church, tendered a drag ride and lunch party to her young friends Friday, which was an enjoyable affair. Miss Carlisle always believes in entertaining the little folks, all of whom are glad to accept an invitation to any of her functions.

The young guests appreciated very highly the hospitality of their hostess, who gave them a delightful ride to Hogtown Creek.

DELICIOUS BANANA CREAM

This receipt is highly recommended by one of our correspondents: try it for dessert to-morrow. Peel five large bananas, rub smooth with five teaspoonsful of sugar. Add one teaspoon sweet cream beaten to a stiff froth, then add one tin package of Lipton's JELL-O dissolved in its lemon boiling water. Pour into mold and when cold garnish with sliced cherries. Serve with whipped cream or any good padding sauce. JELL-O is sold by all grocers at 10c per package.

A Fine Fountain.

The new soda fountain for W. W. Ayers, who is fitting up a new and modern place in the old Hyde building, has arrived, and is one of the handsomest pieces of work of the kind ever seen in the State, and is said to be the only one of the kind in the South.

The fountain is said to have cost $2,000, and no one has yet had the nerve or the experience to doubt it. It is a magnificent fountain of Mexican onyx, which will engage a counter of thirty-three feet. Egyptian marble, with green panels, and will be a credit to a rapidly-growing city.

Ten Years in Bed.

"For ten years I was confined to my bed with disease of my kidneys," writes R. A. Gray, J. P. of Oakville, Ind. "It was so severe that I could not move part of the time. I consulted the very best medical skill available, but could get no relief until Foley's Kidney Cure was recommended to me. It has been a Godsend to me." J. W. McCollum & Co.

Gainesville's water supply is the most pure of any town in the State. This has been demonstrated by a recent analysis.

No one has yet heard of the publication of the city auditor's report, as required by the city charter. Why so much delay in obeying the mandate of the law?

Only a few years since the idea of shipping Florida sweet potatoes to other States was not thought of, but now they leave the State by carloads and bring good prices.

All the Florida summer resorts have enjoyed a most successful season up to the present date. Hard times and no great exposition always benefits Florida summer resorts.

It is now greater Atlanta, all the out-lying suburbs having been added to that city by act of the Legislature. The Constitution claims that the new city has a population of 150,000.

There is no disputing the fact that the men nominated by the Republicans as candidates for State officers are all gentlemen of high personal standing, but they will not poll much of a vote in the election unless they are materially aided financially in the way of funds with which to pay the colored brothers' poll taxes.

Georgia will not hereafter be afflicted with early primaries, a new statute providing that no general primary election shall be held until after the adjournment of the Legislature in August. This will give voters an opportunity to study the record of members of the Legislature who are candidates for State offices.

The thing most calculated to cause an editor to swear is to come to the office of a morning and find his exchanges, which he had carefully arranged the night before, scattered all over the table—and sometimes all over the floor. We do not object to people looking over the exchanges after we leave the office at night, but we are getting infernally tired of the condition they leave them in.

Here is "an old one," but it will bear repeating: "A man who was afraid of thunder crawled into a hollow log as a place of safety during a thunder storm. The thunder rolled and the rain poured down in torrents, and the old log began to swell up till the poor fellow was wedged in so tight that he could not get out. All his past sins began passing before him. Suddenly he remembered he hadn't paid his newspaper subscription, and he felt so small that he was able to back right out."

It is to be hoped that the report of the establishment of an extensive paper mill in this city will prove true. The project has been on foot for some time, but the financial panic of last fall interfered with all negotiations for the time being, but now that money has become "easy" we are glad to hear of renewed efforts to establish this great enterprise. The principal man behind this proposed new factory is a gentleman of means, and we know him sufficiently to have faith in the accomplishment of anything he undertakes.

NAVAL WARFARE OF FUTURE.

High explosives are destined to play a far more important part in future warfare than they have played in the past. There are three ways by which high explosives may be brought to bear upon the warships of an enemy for their destruction. One is in the bursting charge of the high explosive armor-piercing projectile; another is in the submarine torpedo, either in the stationary submarine mine or the self-propelled torpedo of which latter the Whitehead is the principal type; and the other is in aerial torpedoes, huge projectiles carrying charges of half a ton of high explosives, dropped upon and about the warships of an enemy.

During the last decade the principal progress in the use of high explosives has been in the perfecting of bursting charges for armor-piercing projectiles; and today we are able to fire high explosive projectiles from powder-guns, and to penetrate the thickest armor-plate, without explosion until the projectile has passed through the plate to be exploded behind the plate with a proper delay action fuse.

Today when we are able to penetrate heavy armor with projectiles charged with a high explosive 50 per cent more powerful than ordinary dynamite, we look back with a sense of mingled wonder and amusement to the grotesque pneumatic guns for throwing aerial torpedoes, on which this Government squandered more than a million dollars about twenty years ago. Still, there was one good feature about the pneumatic system, and it was the idea of dropping large charges of high explosives upon the decks and in the water surrounding the war-vessels of an enemy. The fatal defect of the system was the employment of compressed air, instead of gunpowder, for the projection of the torpedoes from the gun, together with the fragile character of the torpedo casing, which precluded all possibility of piercing even the thinnest structure.—From "The Naval Battle of the Future," by Hudson Maxim, in The September Metropolitan Magazine.

IS THE SOIL GIVING OUT?

American soil is losing its fertility, according to James J. Hill. The great railroad magnate ought to know, for he has made a careful study of the subject.

The yield in wheat, for instance, has fallen off heavily, says Mr. Hill. While Minnesota soil yielded 13.12 bushels to the acre on the average during the first five years of the past decade, during the last five the average was 12.18. In New York the figures are 18.4 and 17.4, while in Kansas there has been a drop from 15.14 bushels to 13.18. Similar findings are made in the other States.

Mr. Hill makes his point clear by citing the average yield in Denmark—60.19 bushels, which he says is due to the scientific cultivation and enrichment of the soil. Although the land has been tilled for centuries, it has five times the yield of the practically virgin soil of America, simply because the Danish farmer looks after the soil instead of leaving it to chance and the elements to see that it does not run down.

The intelligent among American farmers are learning, and the less intelligent will learn, that the prodigal exhaustion of large holdings of soil is not the most profitable method of agriculture; the intensive cultivation of small farms, scientifically cared for and periodically fertilized, is what American farmers must come to if they want to get the most the soil has to give—and want to keep the soil giving it.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and it is entirely closed. Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. CHENNY & CO., Sold by druggists, 75c. Toledo, O. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

BEST ADVERTISING MEDIUM.

A rather striking demonstration of the supreme value of newspaper advertising over all other kinds is given by the Bureau of Navigation, which spent last year $50,000 in advertising for recruits for the navy, says The Washington (D. C.) Herald. It was determined to spend a similar sum this year, but before letting the contracts the bureau thought it advisable to find out where it had received the best returns for its money. An investigation showed that all magazine and periodical advertising produced from one-fifth to one-sixteenth the returns in enlisted men the daily newspaper advertising did. The most profitable line of advertising was that under "Help Wanted." By using the daily newspapers the Bureau of Navigation got recruits at an advertising cost of $3.86 each, as against $15 to $65 each through the medium of certain magazines and journals.

There is in this investigation by the Bureau of Navigation and its results a most striking lesson for commerce and industry, which depends for their profits on being known of the people. It is obvious why the newspaper offers so much more profitable a field than any other medium. Part of the people may read this magazine, part may read that, but in this day and age practically the entire population of the country reads the daily newspapers, and goes to it for advice and help.

We merely cite this case of the Bureau of Navigation, which hereafter will advertise in the daily newspapers for the sailors it needs, as a modern instance pointing anew the old and tried moral, "It pays to advertise."

Property owners in St. Petersburg will this year pay a city tax of 20 mills. It will take $42,200 to run the city for the next twelve months; the millage will bring in about $39,000 and the balance will come from fines, forfeitures, etc.

A weather forecast says the temperature will be much cooler during the coming week. It is to be hoped so.

If there is the slightest doubt in the minds of any that Dandruff germs do not exist, their belief is compelled by the fact that a rabbit inoculated with the germs became bald in six weeks' time. What Has Happened and What Is Going to Happen Told in Short Paragraphs So That "He Who Runs May Read" It in The Sun.

W. R. Bartley, formerly foreman of the electric light plant in this city but now of Alton, where he holds a responsible position, is in the city. Mr. Bartley's numerous friends here are glad to welcome him again.

Mrs. W. T. Zetrouer and little son will leave today for Worthington Springs. Mrs. Zetrouer is one of the accommodating clerks at the delivery window of the postoffice, and will be missed by the patrons of the office.

Dr. J. B. Tench, formerly of this city but now of Senoia, Ga., where he is engaged as a dentist, is here on a visit to his parents, Major and Mrs. John W. Tench. He is accompanied by his uncle, Dr. R. M. Tench, a successful practicing physician of that city.

The First National Bank of this city have an interesting proposition in their advertisement for this morning, to which the attention of our readers is respectfully directed. It tells of their purpose in business and cites you to the fact that they have been in business for over twenty years.

The Wilson Store, the "little one with the big stock," has an interesting announcement in today's issue of The Sun. They are offering exceptional values in white goods. Other bargains are offered at this establishment and it will pay interested purchasers to read their advertisement.

Remember the excursion to Jacksonville Monday, the 17th inst. Special train will leave Gainesville at 10:15 a. m. on Atlantic Coast Line railway, reaching Jacksonville at 2 p. m. Tickets only $1 for the round-trip, good returning on regular trains leaving Jacksonville either Tuesday or Wednesday.

T. K. Godbey of Waldo, the boss sweet potato grower of this county, was among the visitors to this city Friday. Mr. Godbey has made a remarkable success of potato slips, having a market throughout all the sweet potato States in the belt. His products, being choicest varieties and very prolific, always command a good price.

J. P. Prevatt left yesterday for Montecito, where he will fill an appointment in the pulpit of the Christian church today. Mr. Prevatt will conduct regular services, and during the day will administer the rite of baptism to three candidates. Mr. Prevatt, who expects some day to become an ordained minister, is one of our brightest young men, and deserves the success and popularity he is receiving.

Mrs. I. B. Burts of Tampa arrived in the city yesterday, after a pleasant sojourn at Daytona Beach for a month. She will be the guest of the family of her son, Jesse E. Burts, for the next month. Mrs. Burts states that the coast has been lively for the past few weeks, and that indications show so far that this will be a record-breaking season. The Seaside Inn, Keating's hotel and the Surf Crest have been well filled, and it is now a difficult problem to secure accommodation at either of these high-class resorts.

Men Past Sixty in Danger.

More than half of mankind over sixty years of age suffer from kidney and bladder disorders, usually enlargement of prostate glands. This is both painful and dangerous, and Foley's Kidney Cure should be taken at the first sign of danger, as it corrects irregularities and has cured many old men of this disease. Mr. Rodney Burnett, Rockport, Mo., writes: "I suffered with enlarged prostate gland and kidney trouble for years and after taking two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure I feel better than I have for twenty years, although I am now 91 years old." OUR WEEKLY LETTER FROM NEW YORK

All-White Linen Again the Smartest Fabric for Midsummer Suits—Variations in the Girdle—Cape de Chine the Newest Material for Coats—Revival of the Pelerine

BY MONS GENE DE PONTAC.
When the summer styles were first broached, it was foretold that everything was to have its color scheme—that for once the all-white costume was to be relegated to the background. But as the summer advances, the fact has been established at the summer horse-shows and at the fashionable resorts that all-white is once more the favorite midsummer wear, and that of all fabrics, linen is the smartest.

It is the best liked material for the jumper gown, and linen tailored suits are also much in evidence, somewhat severe models being the favorite. Rose linen makes smart suits, relieved by touches of black, and some of the pale greens are very effective in soft, cool shades, with a touch of black to give them character. The lavender-linens are charming, too, when the shade is becoming—which, unfortunately, is not often. Frocks of figured material trimmed in plain linen are seen, and soutache braiding on the linen gives a pretty finish. In Paris are worn many tailored coat and skirt suits of a soft crash-like linen with two-inch black squares formed of narrow lines on a ground of white. These are trimmed not at all or with a little black, and are accompanied by hats and parasols of poppy pink or emerald green.

The girdles which have been so much used in black satin are now seen in many other shades, though black still remains among the most effective. However, their latest appearance is in jade green, smoke gray or Gobelins blue, with white, ecru or pale grey frocks. Satin is preferred for its clinging texture, but it must be well boned. Often the girdle is crossed in front, lifted high on the left side nearly to the bust, with the ends hanging from this highest point. Worn with a short-fronted coat it gives the effect of a waistcoat, and is very good. It is a French touch to have these girdles match the hat and the parasol.

For the hot-weather coat crepe de chine is the very newest material—lighter and daintier than the satins and silks, and though it sounds rather fragile for coat wear, it really is not. A good quality will wash or cleanse beautifully. It does not muss nearly as easily as silk and it is fully as durable. Sometimes these coats are braided, almost always embroidered, and usually made on the cutaway, open-front model, without waistcoat, as being more suitable for summer temperatures.

A valiant effort has been made to suppress the bolero jacket, but it will not down, and is now cropping up again as an accessory to the Empire gown. Some have quaint little coat-tails in the back; others reach

S.S.S. BEST TREATMENT FOR CATARRH

The entire inner portion of our bodies is covered with a soft, delicate lining called mucous membrane; this is kept in healthy condition by the nourishment and vital vigor it receives from the blood. So long as the circulation remains pure this membrane will be healthy, but when the blood becomes infected with catarrhal impurities and poisons this inner lining of the body becomes irritated and diseased, and the unpleasant and serious symptoms of Catarrh commence. There is a tight, stuffy feeling in the nose, watery eyes, buzzing noises in the ears, often slight deafness, difficult breathing, etc. The disease cannot be reached by external treatment, though such measures afford temporary relief in some instances. S. S. S. cures Catarrh by cleansing the blood of all impurities and poisons. Then as rich, pure blood circulates through the body, the inflamed, irritated membranes heal, the discharge ceases, headaches are relieved and every symptom disappears. Catarrh, being a disease in which the entire blood circulation is affected, can only be cured by a remedy that goes to the very bottom and removes every particle of the impurity from the blood, and this is just what S. S. S. does. Book on Catarrh and any medical advice free to all who write.

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

only to the high waist-line. The bolero of colored taffeta shows distinctly the Directorate influence, with its rolled collar of black satin, black satin buttons on the front and on the sleeves. New boleros are also seen of taffeta braided all over, of embroidered net or of lace over a color. Lace wraps are as popular as ever, and the latest recruits to the ranks is the lace pelerine, which is a sort of cross between the scarf and the lace coat. It is a pretty and graceful shape, the spread of the cape over the shoulders being usually very becoming. In the newly revived model it falls far over the shoulders, often coming quite to the elbow, and the fronts are as wide as they can be made, allowing for a little spread between the stolelike ends. Irish lace, combined with the Baby Irish, is the favorite, medallions of coarse mesh are often used a sometimes wide border of flit. Fore evening wear, gold and silver-embroidered Syrian scarves are sometimes draped in pelerine fashion, fastened over the bust with a rosette, the long ends falling straight

Diarrhoea Cured.

"My father has for years been troubled with diarrhoea, and tried every means possible to effect a cure, without avail," writes John H. Circle of Philippi, W. Va. "He saw Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy advertised in the Philippi Republican and decided to try it. The result is one bottle cured him and he has not suffered with the disease for eighteen months. Before taking this remedy he was a constant sufferer. He is now sound and well, and although sixty years old, can do as much work as a young man." Sold by all druggists.

The Miser's Carpet.

"Dr. Quail, the eminent physician, full of Hibernian wit, would sometimes tell unauthorized anecdotes of his professional experiences," says Sir Algernon West in "One City and Many Men." "Once he was attending a well known man of miserly habits in Mayfair, who when very ill asked him to honestly tell him if he would ever again rise from his bed of sickness. The doctor thought he never would. 'Please ring the bell,' said the patient, and when he had secured the attendance of his housekeeper he said: 'Have the strip of carpet by my bedside, which is a good one, wrapped up and put away. I shall not want it again, and if it is left here those undertaker's men will be sure to spoil it with their dirty boots!'"

"Irontex"—New in Our Hosiery Stocks.

"Irontex" Hosiery for men and children, is a new Hosiery—one we are just introducing and one that is characterized by wonderful durability. But great durability alone is not its sole merit. Of equal importance is its very fine, soft texture, due to the selected yarns employed in the making. The body of an "Irontex" Stocking is made of choicest Egyptian cotton yarn. The toe, heel and sole are made wear-resisting by an interweaving of best quality Belfast linen.

Unlike the coarse, baggy, Cotton Stockings lauded for great durability, "Irontex" Stockings retain their shape after washing, because they are made on full-fashioned frames. And they will hold their foot-fitting shape as long as the fabric holds together. On the other hand, the coarse, all cotton Stockings have little more shape than cotton bags after being washed once.

If there is any more argument needed in favor of "Irontex," it is in the matter of price. "Irontex" costs less than the coarse cotton Hosiery.

Men's "Irontex" Half Hose sell for 24cts. the pair. The coarse cotton sells for 33 cts. a pair.

Women's "Irontex" Stockings, 28c., 38c., 48c. the pair

Children's "Irontex" 44c. the pair.

(Children's with "Irontex" Knees, in addition to soles, heels and toes.)

We invite you to try "Irontex," confident that you will count it the most durable and most comfortable Hosiery you have ever worn.

A WAY THEY HAVE

What This Gainesville Citizen Says

Only Corroborates the Story of Thousands.

The particulars related by this rep- resentative citizen of Gainesville are similar to hundreds of others in this city. When there are scores of peo- ple, all anxious to tell about the bene- fits received from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills, the greatest skeptic in Gainesville must be convinced. Read the following:

Mrs. S. E. Pinkson, living at 609 W. Liberty street, Gainesville, Fla., says: "My daughter had been in poor health for some time, and I am sure that it was all due to weakened kid- neys. She was not strong, felt nerv- ous and was subject to dull headaches. These symptoms, together with others that existed, induced me to procure a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at J. S. Bodiford & Co's. My daughter used them accordingly to directions, and I am glad to say that she was cured. I feel that I owe a great deal to Doan's Kidney Pills, and am glad to recom- mend them to any person suffering from kidney disease."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Swankers.

A number of our contemporaries ap- pear to be somewhat exercised as to the precise meaning of the word "swank." Swank, though usually called by other names, is the leading characteristic of Englishmen. French- men used to talk of "perfidious Al- bion." It was simply another way of calling us swankers. To swank is, broadly, to make the thing that is not seem as the thing that is. —London Globe.

Smartness.

Do not be "smart." Whenever you see any of your mates showing signs of "smartness" in his work, his talk or his play take him by the hand, or both hands, or by the back of the neck, if necessary, and lovingly, playfully, but firmly, lead him to a knowledge of higher and more interesting things. In those words of Mr. Kipling is present- ed the gospel of real life, of common sense and of universal experience.—New York Outlook.

Granulated Sore Eyes Cured.

"For twenty years I suffered from a bad case of granulated sore eyes," says Martin Boyd of Henrietta, Ky. "In February, 1903, a gentleman asked me to try Chamberlain's Salve. I bought one box and used about two-thirds of it and my eyes have not given me any trouble since." This salve is for sale by all druggists.

DO YOU WANT TO MAKE OR LOSE MONEY

THIS SUMMER?

THERE is no good reason for any "summer dullness" in the stores of this city. That's a strong statement—but its not nearly so strong as the one to follow.

No store in this city ever suffered from summer dullness that was not directly traceable to its advertising policy—that was not INEVITABLE on account of its advertising policy. This is a strong statement—but not so strong as the one to follow.

You—if you who read this are a merchant in this city—HAVE THE ABSOLUTE POWER TO DECIDE WHETHER, during THIS summer, YOUR STORE SHALL LAG AND LOSE GROUND, through ENCOURAGING THE NON-BUYING HABIT IN THE PEOPLE—or shall keep as busy as in the so-called "busy seasons." You decide the matter one way or the other when you decide on how much or how little you will advertise during these summer months.

To really "gain ground" at a time when some stores are lagging and falling back is not only possible—it is an aspiration—worthy of a man who has the habit of accomplishing his purpose.
